

U.S. Congressman Mike Pence issued the following statement today as House Republicans presented a new governing agenda called A Pledge to America :

“House Republicans have been listening to the American people. At town halls, small business roundtables, online, and at venues all across the country, Republicans have heard that the American people want our government to get the economy moving again, while reining in spending and rolling back the failed economic policies of this administration. A Pledge to America lays out the agenda that the American people want Congress to enact now. The American people have been saying, ‘We can do better.’ House Republicans agree and are calling on the Democrat leaders of Congress to bring this agenda to the House floor and let the voice of the American people be heard.”

Background:

“A Pledge to America” was built upon the priorities of the American people. This document is the result of months of engagement with the public through the America Speaking Out project. The agenda offers concrete solutions that can be implemented immediately to tackle the issues that are most important to the nation, including job creation, spending restraint, national security, health care and reform to Congress itself.
